In view of the amendment filed on Jan 20th 2004, claims 1-5, 10-15, and 20-23 are pending. However some claims are continued to be unpatentable as following:

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 112

1. Claims 15, 20 and 23 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 112, second paragraph, as being indefinite for failing to particularly point out and distinctly claim the subject matter which applicant regards as the invention.

Claim 15 is structurally indefinite, as it is not clear how the first green sheet "being serviceable as a material for the first ceramic layer and the first green sheet"? It is unclear the relationship between the first ceramic layer and the second ceramic layer? Clarification is required.

In claim 20, the last phrase is indefinite, as it is unclear what layer is "having the same composition as the second ceramic layer"?

Claim 23 is structurally indefinite, as it is not clear how the green sheet relates the first ceramic layer, the second ceramic layer and the three layer structure. Also, it is unclear which layer is "having the same composition as another green sheet for making the second ceramic layer"? It is unclear what "another green sheet" the applicant is referring to? Clarification is required.

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 102

2. The following is a quotation of the appropriate paragraphs of 35 U.S.C. 102 that form the basis for the rejections under this section made in this Office action:

Art Unit: 1775

A person shall be entitled to a patent unless –

(b) the invention was patented or described in a printed publication in this or a foreign country or in public use or on sale in this country, more than one year prior to the date of application for patent in the United States.

3. Claim 15 is rejected under 35 U.S.C. 102(b) as being anticipated by Kanba et al (US 5294477).

Due to the invention is unclear, with respect to the prior art rejection below, the claims will be given the broadest possible interpretation in view of the specification.

Kanba discloses a circuit board comprised of a plurality of layers stacked together. The layers are constituted by a mixture of metal and an insulating ceramic composition. The layers are so constructed to have a functionally gradient structure so that the abundance ratio of the metal component to the insulating ceramic composition is changing in the direction of thickness (col 1 L 50-57 & Figs. 1 & 5).

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 103

4. The following is a quotation of 35 U.S.C. 103(a) which forms the basis for all obviousness rejections set forth in this Office action:

(a) A patent may not be obtained though the invention is not identically disclosed or described as set forth in section 102 of this title, if the differences between the subject matter sought to be patented and the prior art are such that the subject matter as a whole would have been obvious at the time the invention was made to a person having ordinary skill in the art to which said subject matter pertains. Patentability shall not be negated by the manner in which the invention was made.

5. Claims 20 and 23 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 103(a) as being unpatentable over Seyferth et al (US 5455000).

Due to the invention is unclear, with respect to the prior art rejection below, the claims will be given the broadest possible interpretation in view of the specification.

Seyferth discloses a functionally gradient material comprised of a plurality of layers. The layers are arranged in such a way that a stepwise layer-by-layer application of a plurality of intermediate layers are stacked. The intermediate layers are comprised of a metal powder and a pre-ceramic polymer binder (col 3 L 35-45).

The stacked layers having the functionally gradient material with changing the components ratio outwardly from the middle intermediate layer or from one direction (col 10 L 58-62 & Fig. 8 and col 9 L 36-40 & Fig. 3).

In view of the prior art teaching, it would have been obvious to put a plurality of metal/ceramic composite layers which having functionally gradient material because it can control shrinkage during the firing process (col 2 L 60-65).

Allowable Subject Matter

6. Claims 21 and 22 are objected to as being dependent upon a rejected base claim, but would be allowable if rewritten in independent form including all of the limitations of the base claim and any intervening claims.
7. Claims 1-5 and 10-14 are allowed.
